

eShields, LLC Debuts its New Retail Website and Unveils its New Packaging to Hit National Retailers in Mid-February

eShields, LLC hits a home run at this year's CES2009 held in Las Vegas, as it debuted its new retail website and flaunted its new retail package design.

La Verne, California (PRWeb) January 31, 2009 -- eShields LLC., a Southern California-based company, debuted its new retail website and more importantly unveiled its new retail packaging at this year's CES2009 (Consumer Electronics Show), held earlier this month in Las Vegas. "I met with several key buyers from the nations largest retailers and all were impressed with the look and feel of our new packaging and expressed they felt it would sell well in their stores", said John Martinez, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for eShields. Martinez went on to say, "Based on the meetings I had and agreements that were made customers can expect to see our Patented iShieldz® touch screen protective kits on store shelves in mid-February and until that time they can visit our brand new website to make their purchase". According to sources a special coupon code, CES2009, can be used on the new website to get a 30% discount on all iShieldz® products.

"I really felt we hit a home run at this year's Consumer Electronics Show. In addition to the national retailers that will be picking up the iShieldz® product line agreements were reached with major international distributors that will be introducing our products abroad", says Martinez, who went on to say, "this will be a banner year for eShields and the iShieldz® product line".

All iShieldz® kits are comprised of the thinnest, most durable and most optically clear film available. All iShieldz kits are also backed by a 30-day money back guarantee and a Lifetime Replacement Warranty

"At present our most popular iShieldz® kits are for the Apple iPhone® and iPod®, Samsung® Behold, Eternity, Instinct and Omnia as well as the Blackberry® Storm, Bold and Curve", says Martinez. They are and have been called many things; skins, shields, covers, cases but at the end of the day the iShieldz® is designed to one thing and that is to protect the investment you've made in your electronic device, period!
